

Nicole Kroeger- Copyright 1994

A Study of Whom?

My only thought was to paint a quick study of my young daughter.
But as I painted I became aware that this unique person was studying me!
Yet again another reminder that we must try hard to stay conscious of how connected our lives are with others and to recognize our responsibility to be a positive example-not only to children but to each other.