

Nicole Kroeger- Copyright 1998

Dancing

Family reunions in the summertime!

Music under the trees, breezes blowing and the warm sun tickling the backs of everyone's necks.

A father teaches his little girl to dance. She watches every move, carefully placing each foot next to his.

One day she will be more confident and will be able to swirl through the dance steps with her eyes closed.

So, too, are we with our Father. It's hard to follow Him at first.

We are so unsure of His lead and don't quite follow the beat of the music He creates in our lives.

But if we will just earnestly persevere... ah, then we shall dance indeed!

"Most of all... learning to dance with God is learning to let go." - Max Lucado